INSECTS OF ARIZONA. Deadly Creatures That Terrify the

Inhabitants. Dr. Richard E. Kunze, a physician of New York city, has just completed a campaign of several months among the insects of Arizona, and is so greatly charmed with Colorado that he has decided to take up his residence in this state. Dr. Kunze talks in a most entertaining manner of his trip through Arizona, and the peculiarities of insect life in the far southwest. "Arizona," said he recently, "is the El Dorado of the entomologist. The variety of insect life in Arizona has for years made the region a favorite field for students and collectors, but every year new species are found, and new species will be found for years to come. I began work in Arizona in the first week of April last, in the vicinity of Tucson. During the season I worked. every day, for the naturalist knows no Sunday when he is in the field. He must take the insects in their prime. I succeeded in collecting between 60,000 and 75,000 specimens. I could have collected a much larger number in certain directions, but did not do so. "The least number of any one species collected by me during the summer was 100. I gathered in only 100 of the scorpion, centipede and tarantula fam-

"Scorpions," ejaculated a listener. "I should think they would bite."

The naturalist laughed. "Yes, they might bite, if they had a chance; but it is the business of the collector not to give them a chance. You see, we are supplied with all sorts of paraphernalia for handling the different insects. Never let an insect seize you. Do the seizing yourself. Fear is out of the question. We face the music and take the chances.

"The tarantula hawk," said the learned naturalist, "is one of the peculiar little animals abounding in Arizona. The hawk prevs upon the tarantula, hence his name. He is built for hunting them, and he does it to perfection. You can see the hawks crawling along the ground in search of their prey. They have long legs and move like lightning when a tarantula heaves in sight. In an instant the hawk pounces upon the poor tarantula, and before the victim is aware of the danger the deadly weapon of the enemy is implanted in his body. The hawk simply deposits a poison inside the body of the tarantula, which paralyzes him. In connection with the poison he deposits an egg, which proceeds to hatch out, and a caterpillar is the result. The young caterpillar feeds on the body of the tarantula until he is ready to undertake housekeeping on his own account. There are two species of tarantula hawks, distinguished by the color of their wings. A peculiar thing is that each species has its particular kind of tarantula." - Denver News.

POWER OVER BRUTES. A Gypsy Who Fascinates Skunks,

Minks and Foxes. Nordorf Breek, a gypsy, went to Northwood, N. Y., a year ago, and ever since has amazed the natives by his success in approaching wild animals, even coming up with a fox, and handling it as if it were a pet dog.

Breek lives by himself in a shanty on the road to the old Pardy place, and bluejays and squirrels, mink and rabbits gather about his door to feed on the scraps that he throws to them, or to listen to his voice, which is so peculiar that many Northwood men say it makes them shiver. If anyone misses a dog in the vicinity of Northwood a visit to Breek's camp usually reveals the whereabouts of the brute, and five eats are constantly hanging about anxious for a word or caress from the strange man, although they all belong to families who feed them and pet

Breek laughs when anybody asks him about his animal friends, and the other evening, when a skunk came waddling into the store at his heels, Dave Jones felt called upon to protest. Breek picked the skunk up. Everybody drew away hastily, but the expected consequences did not come. Breek took the large party that accompanied Mai. skunk to the door and dropped it from | McKinley to Washington took the the stoop into the road. He came back, other carriages. purchased a side of bacon and some cheese, and made his way up the road, followed by the skunk.

The Northwood woodsmen would never believe before Breek came that foxes had gone to men for protection from dogs on their trails, as foxes are said to have gone to Thoreau. Now seven persons have seen foxes seek shelter with Breek, and there are no skeptics.

It is believed that Breek's eyes are largely responsible for his power over animals. They are rather dark, full of lustre, and direct in their gaze. While not exactly fierce, they are rather menacing. A dog, angry at a child for having stepped on its tail on the store porch one day, started to snap at it. Breek said something quickly, and the dog, giving one glance at the man's eyes, slunk away with its tail between its legs .- N. Y. Sun.

The Crowd in Waiting Set Up a Cheer When McKinley's Well-Known Figure Appeared-The Party Was Then Escorted to the Ebbitt House.

WASHINGTON, March 3.-Wm. Mc-Kinley entered Washington Tuesday way station and entering the carriage immigration. "Heretofore," he says of congress. That was the entire prothe capital city as the future president of the United States.

PRESIDENT-ELECT M'KINLEY. It was just 11 o'clock when the Methe greetings of the reception commit tee. Half a dozen policemen marched ahead and on the flanks of the president-elect's large party as it proceeded down the platform towards 'the ladies' entrance. Maj. and Mrs. McKinley were immediately preceded by Col. Barrett and Mr. Parker, of the reception committee.

The procession proceeded very slowly and with dignity.

The task of getting the presidentelect's carriage started from the station was the work of a moment only, and before the crowd knew it he was rapidly disappearing up Pennsylvania avenue. With Maj. and Mrs. McKinley in their carriage were Chairman Bell and Secretary Porter, while in the following vehicle sat "Mother" McKinley, Col. Britton, Mrs. J. Addison Porter and Mr. C. C. Glover, of this city. The other members of the

Soon after the arrival at the Ebbitt house, Maj. and Mrs. McKinley were figuratively showered by lists of white paste board but they received a few intimate friends only. Gen. Russell A. Alger was among the callers. Mrs. McKinley was very much fatigued and retired to her room for a rest in preparation for the dinner at the white house Tuesday night.

President Cleveland recovered from his rheumatic attack Tuesday evening sufficiently to assist Mrs. Cleveland in entertaining Mrs. McKinley and the president-elect at dinner. At the last moment Mrs. McKinley was still to much fatigued to attend the dinner and her husband went alone. This was purely an informal and domestic affair to which no others were bidden, and at 7:30 o'clock the three persons in whom the interest of the entire United States is just now centered, sat down to a beautiful repast in the small dining room of the executive mansion.

A century's stupendous growth largely due to the assimilation and thrift of millions of sturdy and patriotic adopted citzens attest the success of this generous and free-handed policy, which while guarding the peoples interests, exacts from our immigrants only physical and moral soundness and a willingness and ability to work.

"A contemplation of the grand results of this policy," he writes, "can not fail to arouse a sentiment in its de-

> The claim is also made that the influx of foreign laborers deprives of the opportunity to work those who are bet ter entitled than they to the privilege of earning their livelihood by daily toil. An unfortunate condition is certainly to labor are unemployed. But so far as this condition now exists among our people, it must be conceded to be a result of phenomenal business depression and the stagnation of all enterprises in which labor is a factor. With the advent of settled and wholesome financial and economic governmental policies and a consequent encouragement to the activity of capital, the misfortunes of unemployed labor should to a great extent at least be remedied. If it continues, its natural consequences must be to check the further immigration to our cities; of foreign laborers, and to deplete the ranks of those already there. In the meantime those most willing and best entitled ought to be able to secure the advantages of such work as there is to do.

> The educational test contained in the bill receives close attention on this particular point. Mr. Cleveland says, in his opinion, it is infinitely more safe to admit a hundred thousand immigrants who, though unable to read and write, seek among us only a home and opportunity to work, than to admit of one of those unruly agitators and enemies of governmental control, who can not only read and write, but delights in arousing by inflammatory speech the illiterate and peacefully inclined to discontent and tumult. Violence and disorder do not originate with illiterate laborers. They are rather the victims of the educated agitator. The ability to read and write as required in this in and of itself, affords in my opinion, a misleading test of contented industry and supplies unsatisfactory evidence of desirable citizenship or a proper appre ciation of the benefits of our institution. ment of aliens upon any public works of the United States is in line with other legislation of a like character. It is quite a different thing, however, to declare it crime for an alien to come regularly and habitually into the United States for the purpose of ob. and taining work from private parties, if such alien returns from time to time to a foreign country, and to constitute any employment of such alien a criminal offense.

WASHINGTON, March 3.- The special train bearing Vice President-elect Hobart and party arrived at the Baltimore & Ohio station about 3:26 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. There were no special demonstrations attending Mr. Hobart's reception. They were met
